Is This Book For You?

Welcome to the wonderful world of RVing with Bikes.

My husband, Dan, and I enjoy traveling in our 2529RG Winnebago Minnie travel trailer. We love seeing this great country of ours, and we like doing it with all the comforts of our own travel trailer. We enjoy the amenities and the atmosphere of campgrounds. But at our age, we don't want to rough it. We prefer campgrounds which offer full hook ups.

We also like bike riding. So, we usually bring our bikes along on our trips. In 2021, we bought ebikes, and that is when our love for combining RVing and bike riding really took off.

What we like best is to ride our bikes right from our travel trailer onto a paved trail. However, I couldn't find any single resource which could direct me to campgrounds which offered easy access to paved bike trails. By easy access, I mean that you can ride your bike from the campground to the paved (or hard surfaced) trail. You do not have to ride your bike on a busy road to get to the trail nor do you have to transport your bike to the trail using a bike rack. Simply get on your bike at the campground and ride to the paved or hard surfaced trail.

If you love RVing as much as we do, and I'm guessing you do, and you enjoy bike riding, you'll likely agree that it just doesn't get any better than combining these two activities. The idea of this book is to help you do just that.

About the Campgrounds

The main focus of this book will be on campgrounds, public or private, which offer full or partial hook ups with easy access to paved or hard-surfaced bike trails. The first section of the book lists campgrounds with full hook ups. The listing of campgrounds with partial hook ups with easy access to paved bike trails is located in Part 2.

Not included in the Directory are campgrounds which advertise a "ten year rule." Also, not included are military campgrounds; although, military service is very much appreciated. Campgrounds which advertise as First Come, First Served are noted as such. There is a limited listing of campgrounds which are restricted to those 55 and over. These listings can be found in the "Appendix - Exceptions to the Rules" section.

For each campground listed, I have included the state, the city, the type of campground and the campground's exact name which is linked to its web address. I encourage you to research the campgrounds you are interested in to be sure the campground meets your standards.

If Dan and I have camped at a specific location and I have written a blog post about it, I have included a link to my blog post about our activities there and in the surrounding area. Perhaps this will give you some tips or ideas about what you'd like to do while visiting the area.

About The Trails

Dan and I like to ride on trails which are paved or have a solid surface, such as crushed limestone. As such, these are the type of trails which will be the focus of this guide. I will include the name of the trail which is linked to its web address. Notes will indicate the general length of the trail, giving the reader a general idea if the riding is limited or may connect to a larger system of trails. Trails which are a minimum of about one mile will be included in the listings. I encourage you to check the trail's website for any current closures or restrictions.

This guide will not include mountain biking trails. Nor will this guide include trails or routes which are a dedicated lane on a road. However, if a campground has easy access to mountain biking trails, this may be mentioned as additional information in the notes provided about each location.

About The Bikes

While Dan and I like to ride ebikes, a guide to trails would, of course, be applicable to both traditional bikes as well as ebikes. I encourage you, though, to review any local restrictions with regards to ebikes. And, whether you ride a traditional bike or an ebike, always wear your helmet. If you're anything like Dan and I, you need your head and brain in tact.

Trail: North Central State Trail.

Trail Notes: The campground is located near the North Central State Trail. This is a 75 mile rail trail. The surface is crushed limestone. The contributor has sent in information on how to access the trail from the campground: The campground is approximately 3.3 miles from the main shopping district in the city. A gravel and paved bike path runs to the main shopping district in the city, where you can connect with the ferry to Mackinac Island. At the shopping district one can head south on the North Central State Trail (75 miles) which ends in Gaylord, with various trail heads along the way. To access the trail from the campground: There is a trick to this trail connection coming from the campground because the trail runs along the opposite side of US 23 from the campground, but is not clearly visible because of the trees that line the road. The opening in the tree line is a short distance from the entrance. The secret is that as you approach the campground exit, turn right onto the dirt/gravel path heading towards town. Do not cross US 23. This trail largely parallels US 23 for 1/2 to 3/4 mile. Watch for the opportunity to turn left to cross over 23 where the gravel trail proceeds through an opening in the tree line. About 30 yards after crossing US 23, turn right onto the main part of the trail and proceed to town.

Ride the bicycle shoulder 0.8 miles and you can get on the Marine Drive Trail (18 miles). You pass the Portland airport and can see all the action (they also fly a pattern over the RV park which we love. Not so close as to be bothersome though.) The three sections (see Traillink Map) are not connected but we easily rode on Marine Drive to connect the sections. Not crazy about road riding but we are both 79 and did it with no trouble. The first section of the Marine Drive Trail connects directly to the I-205 Multi-use Path (18.5miles) which heads south. I liked this. It is more urban/past industrial stuff/beautiful older houses/lots of stuff to look at. If you leave the RV Park and turn left on Marine Drive, you can ride the sidewalk about a block and then take the right fork on the road towards the river. Ride along lots of floating houses and boats-this is another section of the Marine Drive Trail and continues on (see Traillink map)."

Appendix 1 - Articles About Ebikes

The following articles are blog posts in my blog, Chambersontheroad.com. These posts are related to our ebike experience. Please note I am not an expert - far from it; these posts simply capture the why and how of what we have done.

Where Exercise Meets Fun - I hesitated to purchase ebikes as I was concerned about the amount of exercise I would be getting riding an ebike versus riding a traditional bike. This post describes the where, when and how we decided to purchase ebikes. The post also includes how we transported our ebikes in our 23 foot travel trailer.

Ebike Experience - This post was written after we had our ebikes for awhile but before we forgot what it was to be an ebike newbie.

Map My Ride - Do you like to keep track of things? This is a short post which discusses the app I use to keep track of my ebike rides.

Rack N Our Brains - This post discusses the bike rack we bought for our Ford Expedition, including the various types we found when shopping.

This blog post from RVingwithBikes.com discusses our purchase of a new travel trailer that had a built in hitch on the back bumper which we could use to haul our e-bikes. However, not just any bike rack can be used. Click here for more information.

Appendix 2 - Recommended Products

This page will link to a page on my ChambersontheRoad blog. All of the links for recommended products on my blog are affiliate links which means I will receive a small commission - at no cost to you. These are products that my husband and I use and have found to be very helpful.

The products include things like a bike tent, a tire inflator portable air compressor, a heavy duty U bike lock and our Sena bike helmets. I've also listed things like a suction cup to easily pick up pickleballs and a plastic pitcher which fits perfectly in our RV refrigerator. I've even included the supplies I use in my watercolor painting hobby and a waterproof lap counter for swimming laps. The products are organized by category, and I welcome any comments and suggestions.

I am linking to the page in my blog as I am continually updating the list of products.
